

Introduction

Download the LearnEnglish Themes podcast. You'll find more information on this page:

<http://www.britishcouncil.org/learnenglish-podcasts-themes.htm>

This support pack contains the following materials:

- The article that you can listen to in the podcast
- An optional language activity based on the article
- Links to other activities on the LearnEnglish website on this theme (peace).

Read the article

Symbols of Peace

by Linda Baxter

The concept of peace is a very important one in cultures all over the world. Think about how we greet people. In some languages, the phrases for greetings contain the word for peace. In some cultures we greet people by shaking hands or with another gesture to show that we are not carrying weapons - that we come in peace. And there are certain symbols which people in very different cultures recognise as representing peace. Let's look at the origins of a few of them.

The dove

The dove has been a symbol of peace and innocence for thousands of years in many different cultures. In ancient Greek mythology it was a symbol of love and the renewal of life. In ancient Japan a dove carrying a sword symbolised the end of war.

There was a tradition in Europe that if a dove flew around a house where someone was dying then their soul would be at peace. And there are legends which say that the devil can turn himself into any bird except for a dove. In Christian art, the dove was used to symbolise the Holy Ghost and was often painted above Christ's head. But it was Pablo Picasso who made the dove a modern symbol of peace when he used it on a poster for the World Peace Congress in 1949.

The rainbow

The rainbow is another ancient and universal symbol, often representing the connection between human beings and their gods. In Greek mythology it was associated with Iris, the goddess who brought messages from the gods on Mount Olympus. In Scandinavian mythology the rainbow was a bridge between the gods and the earth. In the Bible a rainbow showed Noah that the Biblical flood was finally over, and that God had forgiven his people. In the Chinese tradition, the rainbow is a common symbol for marriage because the colours represent the union of yin and yang. Nowadays the rainbow is used by many popular movements for peace and the environment, representing the possibility of a better world in the future and promising sunshine after the rain.

Mistletoe

This plant was sacred in many cultures, generally representing peace and love. Most people know of the tradition of kissing under the mistletoe at Christmas time, which probably comes from Scandinavian mythology. The goddess Freya's son was killed by an arrow made of mistletoe, so, in honour of him, she declared that it would always be a symbol of peace. It was often hung in doorways as a sign of friendship. The ancient Druids believed that hanging mistletoe in your doorway protected you from evil spirits. Tribes would stop fighting for a period of time if they found a tree with mistletoe. But you will never see mistletoe in a Christian church - it is banned because of its associations with pagan religion and superstition.

The olive branch

The olive tree has always been a valuable source of food and oil. In Greek mythology, the goddess Athene gave the olive tree to the people of Athens, who showed their gratitude by naming the city after her. But no one knows for sure when or why it began to symbolise peace. There is probably a connection with ancient Greece. Wars between states were suspended during the Olympic Games, and the winners were given crowns of olive branches. The symbolism may come from the fact that the olive tree takes a long time to produce fruit, so olives could only be cultivated successfully in long periods of peace. Whatever the history, the olive branch is a part of many modern flags symbolising peace and unity.

One well-known example is the United Nations symbol.

The ankh

The ankh is an ancient symbol which was adopted by the hippie movement in the 1960s to represent peace and love. It was found in many Asian cultures, but is generally associated with ancient Egypt. It represented life and immortality. Egyptians were buried with an ankh, so that they could continue to live in the 'afterworld'. The symbol was also found along the sides of the Nile, which gave life to the people. They believed that the ankh could control the flow of the river and make sure that there was always enough water.

After reading - Exercise 1

In the first box are 2 or 3 facts about each of the peace symbols. Can you match the facts to the peace symbols in the second box?

could keep evil spirits away	explains how a city got its name is a Christian symbol of forgiveness	is also a symbol for marriage is associated with Pablo Picasso	is never seen in Christian churches
is often seen in paintings of Christ	is often seen on flags
symbolised immortality	symbolises hope for the future
was used in the entrance to your house	was used near a river was used to represent peace in the 1960s

1. the dove
2. the rainbow
3. mistletoe
4. the olive branch
5. the ankh

More activities on this topic

You'll find links to all the following activities connected to the theme of peace at:

<http://www.britishcouncil.org/learnenglish-central-themes-peace.htm>

- Article: Peacekeeping: Wherever there is conflict in the world and enemies have agreed to let a third party or neutral force come in to try and maintain the peace, it is usually the familiar blue helmets of the United Nations that we see on the scene.
- Word game: Peace symbols. Match pictures of peace symbols with their names.
- Story: The Robe of Peace. Johnny Bellchambers was the flashiest dresser in all of New York. Then, suddenly, he disappeared into thin air. In this amusing story by O. Henry you find out what happened to him.
- Trivia: Everything you (n)ever wanted to know about peace.
- There is also a peace-related cartoon and some carefully selected external links.

Answers to comprehension activity: 1. the dove = is often seen in paintings of Christ; is associated with Pablo Picasso 2. the rainbow = is also a symbol for marriage; symbolises hope for the future; is a Christian symbol of forgiveness 3. mistletoe = is never seen in Christian churches; was used in the entrance to your house; could keep evil spirits away 4. the olive branch = is often seen on flags; explains how a city got its name 5. the ankh = symbolised immortality; was used to represent peace in the 1960s; was used near a river

www.britishcouncil.org/learnenglish